

And So It Goes!

by Chris Cavert

You made a long journey across the sea of change in your steadfast boat. Upon reaching the shore you lit your everlasting candle. You needed to light your walk to the stables of opportunity. There was one faithful steed remaining, meant just for you. You crossed the open countryside under the evening stars reaching the market Together. At last, your destination. You traded your faithful steed for the apple of contentment. You ate the apple, and at a nearby inn finally laid to rest. This journey was over. Tomorrow starts another.

BUILD SILENTLY

BUILD SILENTLY